

Enjoy shopping before take-off!

Prior to passport control

Liquids are restricted to a maximum of 100 ml and have to be packed in a transparent, resealable 1-litre plastic bag. Purchases of liquids exceeding 100 ml have to be stowed in the baggage you hand over at check-in.

After passport control

After you have passed through passport control, however, no restrictions apply. Any items that contain fluids will be sealed after they are purchased, so that you will not experience any difficulty when you pass through the security check.

> Regulations for travellers to the USA – see below.

Note for transfer passengers

No restrictions apply to duty-free items that you purchase on board an EU or Swiss aircraft (e.g. Swiss International Air Lines) or during a stopover at Zurich Airport, as long as they are carried in a sealed bag.

If you are travelling with another airline, however, please enquire about the applicable security regulations.

Special regulations apply to passengers travelling to the USA:

After the security check

No restrictions with respect to the purchase of goods apply in the departure gate areas (E 18 to E 36), but of course you still need to observe the applicable customs regulations.

Keep your liquids on the proper flight path: The new security regulations

In accordance with the new security regulations, only limited quantities of liquids may be taken on board in your hand luggage. The information and suggestions in this flyer are intended to help you make the necessary preparations for your journey and eliminate any remaining uncertainties. As before, any items you purchase after passing through passport control may be taken on board in your hand luggage (travellers to the USA: please refer to the special regulations overleaf). We wish you a very pleasant stay at Zurich Airport.

NEW: only limited quantities of liquids permitted in hand luggage

Products that contain liquids, gels or similar substances may only be carried in hand luggage in quantities not exceeding 100 ml (or 1 decilitre).

NEW: restricted products must be carried in a transparent plastic bag

All restricted products must be carried in a transparent, resealable 1-litre plastic bag. Passengers may only carry 1 plastic bag in their hand luggage.

1-litre plastic bags are available from retail outlets everywhere.

Important: plastic bags must be resealable (pressure or zip). Bags that are closed by means of string, rubber bands, etc., are prohibited.

Items that do not have to be carried in a separate plastic bag:

Medicaments and special foods that are required on board during the flight do not have to be carried in a plastic bag, e.g.:

- Baby foods for babies who are travelling
- Medicaments (e.g. insulin)
- Salt solutions (eye drops, etc.)

Prepare yourself properly for check-in:

- Do not carry more than you really need in your hand luggage
The more items you pack in your checked-in baggage, the better. You should only take the most essential items on board with you. Dangerous items must not be carried in hand luggage (see "dangerous goods" list).
- Pack liquids in your checked-in baggage
Wherever possible, items that contain liquids should be packed in the baggage you hand over at the check-in desk.
- Purchases made before you check in
If you buy any items – especially products that contain liquids – before you check in, pack them in the baggage you hand over at the check-in desk.
- Special requirements
Enquire whether your airline specifies any special security requirements.

To make sure that you can commence your journey without any hassle, it is advisable to get to Zurich Airport 20 minutes earlier than usual. Security measures are refinanced via passenger charges. The new measures are expected to result in adjustments to these charges.

Reducing waiting times at security checks:

In order to pass through the security check quickly and smoothly, plastic bags, electronic devices, metal objects, keys, purses and wallets, mobile phones, jackets and coats should be placed in the trays provided at the security check.

Please note: laptops must be taken out of their case and placed in a separate tray.
